Quality aquatic plants

Kingcombe Aquacare's own in-house aquatic plant nursery is based on our site at St Francis Farm, Hooke, in Dorset. It specialises in growing landscape quality aquatic plants, suitable for planting up our own water features as well as for sale to discerning landscape architects and garden good, strong, healthy plants, with well established root systems, are available throughout the spring and summer.

Great care is taken to ensure all plants leaving the nursery are free of unwanted weeds or other contaminants. Each plant is

If you require assistance on the design of your aquatic planting scheme we can offer advice on the suitability of specific species.

designers. Currently the nursery stocks over 115 species, in a range of sizes, including over 30 different lilies, and more varieties are constantly being added to the list.

We take pride in working with the natural rhythm of the seasons. All but the most tender plants are propagated and grown outdoors, and plants are not encouraged to flower earlier than they would do naturally by being forced under glass. Whilst this may limit availability during the early months of the year, it ensures that individually inspected and all traces of algae and lemna are washed off prior to sale. This rigorous quality control procedure, maintained throughout the production cycle, prevents any plant being contaminated with unwanted non-native invasive plant species. What you see is what you get, and nothing more.

Plants can be propagated and grown on to order with sufficient notice given. Landscape architects and garden designers are welcome to visit the nursery to view the quality of stock by prior arrangement.

Plants can be collected by prior arrangement from our nursery site. For delivery we prefer not to rely on third party courier services, as there is no guarantee that your plants will reach you in the best condition. To ensure that your order arrives unscathed we offer an in-house delivery service, transporting the

To complete your project we also offer a skilled planting service using our specialist waterscaping team, ensuring your plants receive the very best of care.
